The Mananaler Store. Thirty-one Thousand Towels

A Novelty in Sales

To be literally exact, there are 31,124 new towels here, and a casual observer would conclude that there must be at least as many different kinds, for the variety seems endless.

We offer the whole lot this morning at a new schedule of prices, and expect something of a stir in the linen store. For these are new goods, and good goods, and much cheaper than such goods generally are, or, under present conditions, should be.

They have all come to us from the looms on which they were woven, -as straight as ship could carry them. No jobber nor middleman nor agent nor broker intervenes between you and the lowest prices. There are but three parties to the transaction,—we, the manufacturers, and yourselves.

That is all, except to tell prices:
